says: "It is no 'mawkish sentimentality' which demands for the negro his rights under the law. Southern men may regret that equality before the law has been conferred upon the colored man along with freedom and the ballot, and they may even band together to rob him of his rights; but the law stands, and the hickory sapling and the shot-gun do not repeal it. And the law does not say that the negro of the south is to be allowed 'just so much liberty as his nature calls for, for in that section it has never been thought that any liberty was good for him. It cost the war to establish the fact that the negro is a man, and that it is right to be free. Social equality is a question entirely apart, but the southern whites, who are bound to rule at any cost, make no distinction."

Mary Anderson.

[Edwund Yates in The World (London).] I saw Miss Mary Anderson for the first time the other night, and wondered at those critics who declare she has no American accent. A nasal Yankee twang, of course; she has not; no one has that I ever saw, except an actor named Josh Silsbee, who was over here years ago, and the man in the music hall, who has a coat of spangles and trousers of stripes. But that longdrawling deep noted intonation which is as certain to be found in an American man as his padded shoulders, as certain to be found in an American woman as her hair taken off her pretty that Miss Anderson has, very strongly developed. Au reste, our fair visitor is, to my thinking, very lovely, a tolerable actress, and not calculated to cause any great excitement in any way. "There! there's a pretty woman!" said I, years ago, to Captain Mayne Reid. "Sir," said the Uaptain, after looking at her, "she does not cause me an emotion." And I thought of this when I was looking at Miss Anderson. The American papers, which arrived last week, are full of a rumored forthcoming alliance between their lovely compatriot and a young duke, whose name is printed by them, but need not be given here. So far as I hear there is not the faintest foundation for the report; the lady and gentleman sat a dinner a few Sundays ago at a house in Belgrave Square, This I happen to know, and this was quite enough basis to start anything upon.

A Story of Summer and Greeley. Charles Sumner, many years before he was known in politics, sought the acquaintance of Horace Greeley in New York. He found the journalist much engaged, and was invited by him to come to his house the next morning and take breakfast. Mr. Sumner was not an early riser, and he liked a good breakfast when he did get up. He rather anticipated one in this case. At the early hour named by Mr. Greeley he left the Astor House, took a stage and rode several miles up Broadway, and after much difficulty found the res idence of his new friend at an oldfashioned farm house, situated in the middle of an orchard between Broadway and the river, where he was hospitably received by the occupant. After considerable conversation with Mr. Greeley, the latter remarked to his wife, who had come into the room, that Mr. Sumper would probably like something to eat. She expressed a doubt whether there was anything in the house, at which Sumper, who was really hungry after his long ride, was somewhat-well, surprised, to say the least. "Why, mother," said Greeley to his wife, "you must dave some milk some bread and milk in the house.' She thought that it might be so, and soon appeared with a mug, two bowls and some crackers, which she placed cipient philanthropists ate their breakfast in peace. Anybody who knew Sumner and his dainty ways in these things can appreciate the situation. nois, and O'Hara, of North Carolina. No doubt it was the first and the last time he ever did justice to bread and time rather strengthened, that the action a real one so far as good faith was concerned, although he related it with considerable gles. Perhaps he had in his heart something of the feeling of Thackeray, who once said to a friend in Boston, "I often wish I knew whether Becky Sharp was really guilty when found by her husband with the Marquis of Steyne under such remarkable circumstances."—Every Other Saturday.

A New Use for Eggs.

Everyone is familiar with the value of the yelk of an egg m a hair wash, but perhaps may not be aware of its virtue in clothes cleaning. Beaten up with alcohol, cologne, or ether, like ox gall, it keeps better and is more powerful; or simpler cases, it may be used alone, or merely mixed with water, to be subbed on with famile for remove be rubbed on with flamnel, for removing from colored materials the stains of mud, coffee or cheso the when pre-pared with milk. It is incluently ap-plied to velvet collars, cuffs, &c., and roves a cleanser as well as a spot extractor. When it has done its work it is washed off with soap, and the material thoroughly rinsed in pure water. Egg has a specially good effect on those annoying patches of wheel grease, be longing to the compound class of stains, as they represent a mixture of stale grease, iron and other substances. For removing stains—not grease—from white or light colored material, glycerine may be tried, especially with coffee stains. Milk, immediately applied, is the best remover of ink; sour milk is the best, put the article into a saucer and let it soak in the milk.

Silk culture is assuming great importance in California. It is said by those who have tried it that some parts of that state are peculiarly well adaped for this inductry. At a recent meeting of the State Board of Silk Culture sters were taken to import the best varieties of mulberry trees from Italy for grafting, and it was stated that a large box of silkworm eggs was about to arrive had more to make them go crazy than o'clock. The doctor said she died of printers and editors. No money half tinue the school of instruction for silk culture, if sufficient money for the purse is forthcoming. The water of California is better adapted for silk reeling than that of any other country on account of a peculiar softness which characterizes it, and its freedom from all alkaline substances.

A Subject for Investigation.

It is stated that one of the new com mittee clerks of the House refuses to give out the proceedings of the committee which are intended for the public unless he is paid for it, and that he nuque, her svelte figure, or her tiny feet has offered to selt, for one dollar a day, to correspondents all the proceedings, secret and otherwise, the committee has. The Critic will give that clerk a hat practice he will lest about the days. A committee clerk is a servant of the people and must treat people who enter his office in the same mar ner as if he were an officer of any other denomination, and the sale of news won't work-not in Washington .- Critic

During recent years agriculture has made much progress in Japan, although the area of land under cultivation is still comparatively small. Four fifths of the population is engaged in agricultural pursuits, and in few countries could such an extensive variety of products be raised. A strange perversion of taste among the Japanese is that they eat all their fruits when green, fruit being considered unfit for There are no fences in Japan raised ridges of earth taking their place. The great need of the country now is stock, and it is probable that before long stock raising will receive more attention than it has in the past.

A. Plausible Objection.

"Going to visit Germany this winter, hear," said Mr. Plimsolt to old Uriah Pettigrew, whose reputation for stinginess was almost sublime.

"Yes, I thought I would go over in about two weeks."

"Don't believe they will let you go ashore," observed Plimsoll.

"Why won't they let me go ashore?" anxiously inquired Pettigrew. "Why you know Bismarck has declared against the importation of

Our Advantages. It is most gratifying and encouraging to notice the confidence, zeal and determination evinced by the Beoublican party and its allies throughout the entire country at the threshold of the great contest before us this year. At no time in the history of the party have the prospects and general outlook been more auspicious.

The confidence thus early exhibited arises from patent considerations. The success of Mr. Arthur's administration has been in all respects everything that of criticism has never been discouraged the people of all classes and shades of by intelligent members of the party: political opinion could desire. Our financial condition is unparalleled in the history of the nation, our relations with foreign countries are all that we have a right to expect, while our domestic affairs are most tranquil and satisfactory. The people of the nation plainly see that no change in the man- in vain for its parallel in the history of ner or policy of the administration can better our condition, while such a change might materially affect us. If the Democratic party was an untried organization, with new ideas based upon some great principle, productive of good, to which the Republicans of the land offered strenuous opposition, then, indeed, might it be considered probable that the voters of the country would take the question of a change into serious consideration. But such is not the case. The Democratic party does not, nor is it likely it will, offer any inducements of a taugible character sufficient to work a change in the minds of the people generally. In the coming contest, as in others that have preceded it, they stand solidly only upon the question of spoils. It will be an utter impossibility for them to present a platform upon which can consistently stand the northern and southern elements of the party. To this extent the Republicans have an acknowlall respects, and in none more so than in the admirable tariff system, which, while it has met all the general and accruing expenses of the government, has so fostered our great interests as to promote the general welfare of the

Aside from its own proud record, the Republican party can with more propriety appeal to the voters of the country from the shortcomings, and in many instances open corruption of their opponents in localities in which they have gained a temporary foothold. The recent senatorial contest in Ohio affords ample warning as to the tendencies of modern Democracy.

The bypocrital cry of turn "the rascals out" will scarcely be heeded, when at the first opportunity a desperate gang of bribers, headed by a gigantic moneyed monopoly, invades the sanctity of a sovereign state and barters away the choice of the people for one of the most honored positions known under our institutions.

In North Carolina the initiation of the campaign will be brightened by the fact that thousands of the young men of the state, disgusted with the old and obsolete ideas of past decades, will give the weight of their influence and energy to the party that promises to keep step with the progress of the times. The people at large, of all shades of former political affiliations, are beginning to think and act for themselves. The old hackneyed harangues of social equality and radicalism will fail to divert them from the plain paths of duty to themselves, their state and their country.

We note with special pleasure the tone and temper of the resolutions recently adopted at a meeting of the Republican senators and representatives in Washington City. A most cordial invitation is tendered to the citizens of southern states, regardless of past party affiliations, to unite in a common cause as against those whose action tends to retard their personal no less than their political interests.

We take it that the prosperity which years may well cause those against us, from the teachings of their ancestors or ungenerous prejudices, to awaken up to the living present, and in doing this, they will not hesitate as to their course or action.

We enter the contest at an advantage far beyond precedent, and if we do but follow the vantage ground, our continued success in a national point of view is secured and the prospects of redseming North Carolina approaching a certainty .- North State.

A Contrast.

The Republicans feel, with good reason, that they are not called upon to "make issues" for the coming presidential campaign. Their record is before the country. By that they are selves right on some matters, on which they had not at that time done all that the country desired, or on which their is that one of the great parties is calmiy awaiting the verdict of the people, with absolute and unqualified readiness to be judged by the record as it stands There are individuals in the party who wish to perfect their personal hold upon the confidence of states or districts, But there is no section or faction, no wing or fragment of the Republican party, which desires at this time to bring about any real modification of its positian as a whole.

This is not because all Republicans think their party faultless. On the contrary, its real faults have been more unsparingly criticised by Republicans than by Democrate, and it has been captiously censured by Republicans in action, if not the best conceivable, has causbeen on the whole the best that was practicable. This remarkable freedom they have seen that it helpled to avoid mis akes and to correct errors. But Republicans feel that, on the whole, they have a right to be proud of their party as the bravest, the most patriotic, the wisest and the most successful party ever seen among men. They look false friends, who have proven recreany other self governing country, for in other lands, when lofty motives have inspired action, there has never been enough of practical statesmanship to secure public support for a long period. They rejoice to contrast it with any other party ever seen in this country, both as to the progressive tendency of its acts and the general excellence of its administration, and as to the wisdom shown in moving fast enough and yet not too fast to take the people with it. On every great question of the past, its course has been vindicated by the results and by the confession of its opponents. On every disputed question of the present, it has taken a position which it believes the people will sustain. Best of all, it has shown that it can correct its own errors, purge itself

It is not possible to say these things of any other party. Democrats do not say for themselves that they have succossfully consulted the popular will. more honored or prosperous, or that they have been able to cast out corruption or to correct errors among them. selves. On the contrary, they continually admit that their leaders have shown almost icc inceivable folly; they confess that, where they bave had unrestrained power, as in New York city, they have failed to provide good government, or to clear away corruption, or even to repress the influence of the worst men among them; they sadly acknowledge that at the south a supposed necessity has pushed them into courses of violence and injustice which they do not justify; and they denounce each other with great heat for criminal or stupid conduct on great questions now pending. The whole party is boiling over at Washington, in its half crazed anxiety to get its record straightened out so that it may have a chance of

when there is need, and move forward

as the needs of the country change.

Nothing can add to the force of this contrast. The marvel is that any Democrat can imagine the people do not see it. Among all the proofs of Democratic stupidity and incompetence, perhaps not one is more convincing than this, that the party, while presenting such a contrast with its rival, really deludes itself at times with a hope of success. A BIT OF SECRET HISTORY.

Amazing Letter From Judah P. Benjamin.

PROPUSING THAT THE SOUTH SHOULD RESUME ALLEGIANCE TO GREAT BRI TAIN-DESIROUS FOR AN ARISTOC-RACY-SOME "ADDRESSING EACH OTHER BY TITLES."

The following letter from Judagh P. Benjamin, then United States Senator from Louisiana, to the British Consul in New York, was left among Thurlow Weed's papers, and is given in the volume of memoirs of his grandfather, which Thurlow Weed Barnes is now has attended us during the past few carrying through the press. It is produced here from the advance sheets of publican control-each with extensive that volume.]

Judah P. Benjamin to the British Con-

sut in New York. NEW YORK, Aug. 11, 1860. DEAR SIR: I exceedingly regret your absence from New York at this time, as the important object of my visit is to have a personal and confidential interview with you.

My apology for this breach of conventional usage, in presuming to address you without the formality of an introduction, may be pardoned in consequence of the very extraordinary nature of the business which induced me to approach you without the friendly willing to be judged. A year or two intervention of a third party. Indeed, ago they were anxious to set them- it would not only have been unwise but actually dangerous for me to have

The official confidence which your government seems to repose in you, by intrusting to your charge its great commercial affairs in the most important city on this continent, I think is sufficient to warrant me in trusting to your discretion, patriotism and loyalty a secret of the greatest-importance and interest to Her Britannic Majesty's

The present disastrous condition of political affairs in the United States (which has no parallel in the past history of the country) seems to have split shipped to England, converted there the great Democratic party into many under the pauper labor system of that contending factions, all of which are so country, and reshipped back to be hungry after the public spoils that its sold where the raw material is raised. disintegrated parts render them an easy almost countless instances where its prey to the opposing Black Republi-

Sooner than yield to the are bitrary dictates of traitorous allies and ant to the solemn obligations of our old constitution, we will either secede from the Union and form a separate government, or, upon certain conditions, at once return to our allegiance to Great Britain, our Mother Country. Many, very many of the most weal thy and influential planters throughout the south have already discussed this alternative, in the event of the election of Mr. Lincoln, and the popu larity of the proposition seems to pass from one to another almost with an elestic rapidity. It is true they have made no public demonstration of their intentions, for such a course would be attended with direful consequences at this time, but the Pear will be fully, ripe before November.

Allow me a personal interview, and, if you cannot come to New York, address your answer to "Benjamin," in care of some one at your office. - Tribune.

The Card of the Pilot Editors.

The editors of the Pilot, an insignificant sheet lately published in this city as a daily, have been able to bring themselves unduly before the public by the publication of a card in the Raleigh News and Observer of Saturday, charging their suspension to the intimida. tion of the publishers, who are the proprietors of a job office, by Dr. Wheeler, collector of internal revenue in this district, alleging that he threatened to withdraw the printing for the collector's office if they continued to publish

The absurdity of this charge is fully apparent to every one who is at all acqua nted in this city, and its mere denial superfluous. But for those who are not, possibly a word is necessary.

There are in these towns five print ing estrblishments besides the one at which the Pilot was published-four under Democratic and one under Rejob outfits. Has Dr. Wheeler "chained" all these?

The truth of the matter is, the Pilot was edited by men with no characters, education or money; who dealt in low, dirty, personal abuse, beneath the notice of any one. Of the three Democratic papers published here, nor this journal, ever referred to a single charge they made. Disappointed applicants for position in the revenue service themselves, they became the willing tools of others similarly afflicted, and instead of publishing a newspaper in any sense of the term, issued about a fourth rate gutter-snipe sheet. A forbearing people stood the affliction for four months when an outraged public sentiment arose in its might, withdrew its patronage and the thing collapsed. This, and not Dr. Wheeler's interference, was the cause of the suspension of the Pilot.

For the information of the press and in justice to our local printing houses, we take this occasion to say, knowing whereof we speak, that the allegations contained in the card are false in every particular .- Union Republican.

Instead of the cotton grown in the south and converted into fabrics through southern labor and supplying our own demands the raw material would have been Thus would all the profits of cotton growing have been drained from the south for the benefit of English manu-The doctrines maintained by the facturers and operatives, while under our tariff laws they are kept at home the great interests of the whole south to stimulate diversified industries, give employment to home labor, create a (which is almost certain) amounts to a market for farm products and enrich 115,000 republicans who voted for Buxtotal destruction of all plantation in- the section generally. The south isas destined to be the great cotton manufacturing district of the world, if the legislation of congress will continue to be friendly to home enterprise and protect our milk and factories from the low wage of Europe.

The same effect that free trade would have on the cotton interest of the south would, under Mr. Hewitt's suggestion, of free iron ores have on the iron interests of the south. With no duty on iron ores, Mr. Hewitt could import from Cuba and Spain and Africa for his furances in New York at nominal cost. He would thus depreciate the value of the iron ore fields of the United States, and throw out of employment the lahor engaged in their mining. He could, in this way, make iron chesper than it could be made in he sould, and arrest iron development and manufacture in this section, to the advantage of manufacturers situated as To be consistent and to relieve himself the charge of mercenary motives, he should favor the removal of the duty on pig metal, and thus bring his own operations directly in compeition with the furnances of England. But instead of this he strikes at the south, in his prop sition to import free iron ores and wool, and all raw material that has not been applied to manufactures, in order to enable his own furnaces to run at a profit, at the expense of the iron regions of the south, and the New England woolen factories to operate, on English free wool, to the destruction of the wool growing interests of the south and west,

Why the South Wants Protection. Free trade advocacy in the south at this time is the most foolish course that politicians ever adopted, Just when we are prepared to reap the benefits from protective duties, there rises up a spirit of opposition to that policy. It matters nothing to the supporters of this fallacy if it is pointed out to them that protection has made the north and east rich by encouraging the building of manufactories in almost every town and village of that section. It weighs nothing with them to show that it is the small industries scattered throughout the country which make a people prosperous, and that now the opportunity is opened to us and the time at hand for dotting our land with cotton, wool, iron and other manufactories. It doesn't stop their clamor to demonstrate that the south can be made the wealthiest and most influential section of the country, if her resources are only developed and her raw material worked up at home. These mad advocates of a suicidal policy are really striving for the very things that they say it is their purpose to avert. They raise a great cry against monopolies, and yet are pursuing a course for their encouragement Can they not see that to wipe out all protective duties will compel small manufacturers to shut up shop and leave the business to the wealthy corporations at home and the cheap labor abroad?-Take off the tariff duties and you destroy manufacturing enterprise in the smaller cities and towns, and leave a a huge monopoly to be concentrated where interest on money is low, labor cheap and transportation favorable. And such condition of affairs a sthat is not what builds up a country and makes

And, narrowing the limit, it all of the manufacturing establishments of the state were concentrated at Nashyille there would not result an equal benefit to the people as if they were divided out amongst the several counties. We already have the advantage of the raw materials; now permit the aid of protec ive daties until manufacto. ries can be started and established, and we will have the garden spot of the world. The north and east can better stand the abolition of protective duties than can the south; because (1) their manufactories are well established and backed by large capital, and (2) the rates of interest with them ranges from 2 to 3 per cent., while in the south we must pay 8 and 10 per cent. The lines will be formed, those who favor an honest ballot, the right of the people to govern themselves, cheap popular education, the encouragement of American labor and industry, and the perpetuity and glory of our country will be on one side. A united opposition, united in senti-ment, in patriotism, in purpose—that is the music, gentlemen of the Democracy, you have got to face in this year of our Lord 1884, One convention, one ticket, one victory-this is the political trinity under which we fight and win, There will be one political convention composed of a united opposition. Any man, no matter by what past political name he foot about daylight, and were expected has been known, so that he is opposed to Democracy, national and state, will be cordially invited to a seat in that convention and will have a voice in the formation of its platform and ticket. The republican party is great and it is therefore generous. It does not ask for office, but it does stand by principle. When such a convention meets, as it will meet, and nominates a ticket, as it will do, the North State will support that ticket, no matter whether Grissom, Russell, Winston, Price, Leach or arty other good man is at its head. There s much cold comfort in this article for the bourbons. But there will be still less in the count next November .-

The Ohio Democrats.

Since the defeat of Senator Pendleton, the Ohio Democrats are saying terrible things about each other. His defeat is denounced as a downright betrayal, like that of Judas who sold his Master for thirty pieces of silver. It is openly charged that money bought the success of Mr. Payne. 'A prominent Democrat editor of the state draws the following pea-picture: "Corruption has made rotten the Democratic legislature of Ohio. Money has had its potency to drag honor down into the mire. Satanic temptings by promises of future official profit have seduced the trustees of the ioblest estate within the transfer of men. The guardians of political rights its claws about twice the length of a have betrayed their wards. These traitors to their coasti uent; must be investigated. The insult to the state must be avenged."

Ex senator Thurman declares that Pendleton was literally butchered by Democratic cut-throats. We do not undertake to say how much truth there is in all this, but if half of it is true, then Ohio Democracy is in a pretty bad way. This, remember, is not what Republicans say about the Democrats, but what Democrats say about themselves. Republicans can ook on complacently while these Carolinian.

Evidently caring more for the prosperity of the country than It does for bourbon success, the Macon (Georgia) Telegraph, a staunch Democratic paper, coutains this nugget which the Democracy can assay: "Sugar making, rice growing, wool growing, and the hun dreds of styles of manufacturing are protected by tariff duties, but they are not 'monopolies.' Any one that wishes to do so can engage in any one of these enterprises. If the people really believe that 'protection' makes the business protected 'a bloated monopoly,' it is singular that more of them do not embark in ohe or more of the protected industries. More of these 'monopolies' is what the state needs." Good for you, Mr. Telegraph. If there is a state in the south that is in favor of protection, that state is certainly Georgia. Whether the vote of Georgia will reflect the sentiment of her people or not. Georgia is as heart in favor of a protective tariff; yet she, like her southern sisters, is but the foot-ball of bourbon bosses.

fails to interest his congregation and build up his church is generally accused of being a poor preacher, or of not studying hard enough. That is not always where the trouble comes from. Dyspepsia and liver disorders are responsible for many a dull sermon and many a vacant pulpit. When the Dominie's digestive apparatus is working wrong and his nerves are giving him pain, and his brain refuses to do its duty, it is almost impossible to make or to preach a good sermon. Yankees Without Horns.

"Do you know that there were negroes, and I believe many white people in the south, who did not believe that Yankees, as the southerners called the Union soldiers during the war, were human beings-men like other men?" said a southerner to a Tribune reporter.

"Do you mean to say that ignorance prevailed to such an extent?" queried

the reporter. "I most assuredly do. I was a schoolboy when the war broke out and lived in Wake county-not many miles from Raleigh, N. U. It was considered a penal offence in those days to teach a negro to read. Yet they would be compelled to take the rear seats in a country church on Sunday and hear the Bible expounded, and were taught that hell and damnation would be their portion unless they really believed every word in the bible-words many of them could not spell, much less understand. There was a large slaveholder near my Dismal Swamp Lottery youthful home, and he owned about sixty negroes. They were as ignorant, for the most part, as hogs. Morality, they knew not the meaning of. Many of the women followed the plow, and they went barefooted winter and summer, unless occasionally on Sundays. The old family cook was a coal black negress named Cherry, and I remember now with delight the famous biscuite, buckwheat cakes and waffles she lifted from the griddle. My brother married the young mistress after the war. Well, I saw a skirmish or two myself about the close of the war, but happened to be on a furlough at my country home when Kilpatrick's cavalry and Sherman's infantry pursued Johnson's famished, half-naked troops west of Raleigh. Every door was closed and every house barred as the troops passed by. The rich slave owner had fled to the city, and by accident I happened to be in his plantation house with many whites and blacks, who were trembling for their lives when the last remnant

I had been pressed into service to get a locomotive in running order at Newbern, North Carolina, and had orders bern, North Carolina, and had orders to run to Battle Creek, twelve miles away, when I should be joined by a party of officers. Presently they came. One of them was tall, very commonly dressed; rather uncouth, I thought. But he seemed to be in command of the party, and perched bimself up on the water tank, where he sat while I hasked the engine down to Battle Creek. backed the engine down to Battle Creek. He was just as common as you please, and talked to me at times. When he got down to meet the commander of the ocean forces, completing thus the great work of his campaign, I found that it was Gen. To Keep Lard. When the scraps are just beginning to get brittle and brown, put in a tablespoonful of fine salt to a quart of the hot lard, and there will be no trouble; the lard will keep perfectly sweet for any length of time, and the salt does no possible harm to any kind of cookery. Persons can easily judge of the quantity of lard if they know how much the kettle holds. It makes the lard whiter and harder, aside from preserving it sweet. It must cook a little while after adding the salt. That designed for summer use should be kept in a tight earthen jar, or a tin bucket with a cover.

SENSIBLE MEN and women know ere diseases and derangements of the body each has a separate cause or origin, and that each needs a different method of treatment in order to effect a cure, and a mo-ment's reflection must convince that any of the quack nestrums feisted upon the public claiming to cure all of a namber of diametricly different diseases must prove failures, even if we do not call them hum-pours.

POOR PEOPLE and people of moderate means, had even people well to do or wealthy find that the enormous charges of practising physicians are a scrious burden to them, and also find that after paying themselves, our that no benefit has accrued to them, that in fact they have thrown their money away. To overcome these evils we offer Wheeler's No. 96 Sure Remedies to the sick and suffering one Remedy for each disease, without for a moment claiming that one remedy will cure ment claiming that one remedy will cure any other disease than the one claimed for it, and as these remedies have stood the test of years without a single failure we agree to refund the money paid in every intrance where a cure is not positively effected. The remedies are entirely vegetable, can do no harm, and will positively cure every disease for which they are prescribed.

cure every disease for which they are prescribed.

BITI MATICAL Gout, Lameness of Milliam Milliam Gout, Lameness of Melaniam Gout, Joints, Sciatica and Neuralgia are relieved at once and positively cured by the use of Wheeler's No. 96 Rheumatic Remedy. We say boldly that in the worst of cases of no matter how long standing, how serious or how painful, we can not only give relief but positively cure for all time. Failing todo this we will positively refund the money paid for the treatment, and if your sufferings are not positively refund the money paid for the treatment, and if your sufferings are not positively stopped for all time you have not thrown your money away as you would on any other than thess guaranteed remedies. The price of Wheeler's No. 96 Rheumatic Remedy is only 50 cents. obtainable from druggists or sent free by mail on receipt of price. Stamps taken.

TORPID BOWELS, SORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise the c-tourths of the diseases of the luman race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Nowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after cating, aversion to exertise of body or mind. Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Mizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots be ero the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and domand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "seavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect.

"I have had Dyspepsia, with Constipa-tion, two years, and have tried ten different kinds of pills, and TUTT'S are the first that have done me any good. They have cleaned me out nicely. My appetite is splendid, food digests readily, and I now have natural passages. I feel like a new man." W. D. EDWARDS, Palmyra, O.
